

About my Internship in *National Taiwan University, Taiwan.....

People here are very kind, helpful and friendly. When I say they are kind, helpful and friendly I mean it. Let me tell you one situation, there is a PHD student Mr. Sun who paid my dorm fee before I reached Taiwan without an accord. This explains their helping nature and hospitality. One day without my knowledge I was walking on a street which is meant for bicycles. I didnt notice a bicyclist behind me for a while and after some time I moved aside and gave him way he apologized me and went off. These people are recondite and abstruse.

Prof Tien Pen, Hsu Dept. of Civil Engineering is the professor under which I pursued my Internship. He is very affable, sophisticated, learned, determined and has thirst for knowledge. Whenever I was in an ambiguous and nebulous situation he used to clear it off patiently without losing forbearance. He has a profound knowledge in almost all the areas of Transportation Engineering. A very nice part of him is, Every time I meet him he used to enquire about my wellbeing and acclimatization.

The Lab in which I worked has many modern accoutrements. They have the latest technology and students are not refrained to utilize them at any point of time.

Coming to the students of National Taiwan University and people of Taiwan, they don't have chaperons or duennas, young minds are free to roam and they lark about in the streets; no nepotism, they encourage everyone who is eligible; no proselytizing, people have freedom and no one forces the other to change his/her religion; no sinecure, all of them work very hard; they are not complacent or smug like most of us; they are not recalcitrant or fractious, they obey their superiors and respect them a lot.

Taipei is a Very small, densely populated with many sky scrapers. The metro system here is awesome. Some of the adorable places I watched are Taipei 101, Taipei Zoo, Dr. Sun Yat Sen memorial hall, National Tapei Museum, Dhansui, and Shilin Market. As a Civil Engineer I loved watching Taipei 101. The world's fastest elevator is one of my rapturous experiences. I need not look at Taipei 101's click from now, it's in my eyes.

Finally I would like to thank Prof. Hsu, Mr. Sun and Mr. Weng for making my trip a memorable one.

Author: Mantha Ram Kumar Bharadwaj,

9th July, 2010

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY (NIT), DURGAPUR, India